- Q5. What, if anything, would you do to improve the functioning of Congress?

United States Senator

This person represents New Mexico in the United States Senate. The Senate has 100 members, two from each state. Candidates must be at least 30 years old, a citizen of the United States for at least nine years, and a resident of the state from which elected. Senators are elected statewide for staggered six-year terms. One New Mexico seat is up for election in 2024.

Martin Heinrich

Democratic

A1: As your Senator, we've passed legislation to deliver unprecedented investments for our children, our working families, and our seniors in New Mexico. Because of these investments, we've begun to see costs for things like groceries and prescription drugs go down and our economy grow, I'm running for reelection to the Senate because we still have more work to do, from tackling climate change to expanding access to health care to ensure that every New Mexican has the opportunity to thrive.

A2: If reelected, my priorities will be to grow rural economies, reduce costs for New Mexico families, raise workers' wages, expand access to health care, protect the rights of workers, and tackle climate change while creating high-quality jobs.

A3: We should build on the Inflation Reduction Act, Infrastructure Law, and CHIPS and Science Act that we've passed into law and New Mexico is starting to feel the impacts of. The Inflation Reduction Act is bringing jobs to rural New Mexico, especially in clean energy manufacturing. The Inflation Reduction Act also lowered costs for prescriptions for seniors on Medicare and is making health insurance more affordable. The Infrastructure Law is bringing billions of dollars to New Mexico to rebuild roads, bridges, and energy infrastructure, and the CHIPS Act is bringing thousands of good paying jobs to expand manufacturing and strengthen our national security. Now it's time to ensure every New Mexican can access the benefits of these historic laws.

A4: We need solutions, not political stunts. We need to tackle the huge backlog of lawful immigration, so it doesn't take years for a person's paperwork to be processed. And we need to invest in smart border security technology that detects and stops drugs like fentanyl before they get into our communities. We need to staff and support the law enforcement agencies at our border that are helping to maintain our national security and efficiently process cross-border trade with our largest trade partner, Mexico. We need more pathways for skilled immigrants eager to fill labor shortages in industries with severe workforce shortages, like agriculture and health care. And we need to finally ensure DREAMers have a swift path to full citizenship.

A5: Congress should pass legislation to get dark money out of our elections and give the American people transparency into who is attempting to influence their votes. Additionally, the Senate should end the filibuster to prevent a single Senator from disrupting the Democratic process and ensure working people in America have a real seat at the table in Washington.

United States Representative District 2

This person represents New Mexico in the United States House of Representatives. The House has 435 members elected from districts based on population. New Mexico is entitled to three members. Candidates must be at least 25 years old, a United States citizen for seven years, and must be a resident of New Mexico. Representatives are elected by district for a two-year term.

Gabriel Vasquez

Democratic

A1: I am running for re-election because there is still a lot of work to do for our community. Now more than ever, we need to protect reproductive rights, the LGBTQ+ community, immigrants, veterans, tribal communities, teachers, students, and our public lands. I want to run for this seat specifically because I am so proud to have been born and raised in the borderlands. I am proud to call Las Cruces my home and will continue to dedicate my career to fighting for my community.

A2: Extreme Republicans prioritize petty politics over common-sense solutions. Actual governance is the biggest issue facing Congress, impacting women's reproductive rights, inflation, affordable housing, immigration and border security, which are top issues for Congress to solve. My constituents are concerned about the economy, access to clean water, affordable broadband and quality healthcare, including women's reproductive healthcare. Unlike my opponent, who sponsored legislation to restrict abortion access, I firmly believe in a woman's right to choose. I am tired of this district being left behind because Republican Leadership continues to put politics over people. We must keep this district blue and take back control of the House in 2024.

A3: We address them by working across the aisle, delivering common sense policies and always sticking to our values. Since my first day serving in Congress, I have prioritized putting forth bipartisan, common-sense solutions that would have strong support if Republican Leadership brought it to the floor. However, because extremist Republicans are prioritizing messaging bills for the 2024 election over solutions, progress will always stagnate. By prioritizing the well-being of our constituents over partisan politics, we can overcome the challenges ahead and ensure a brighter future for all residents of our district.

A4: Congress has not delivered meaningful immigration reform in over 40 years. Republicans prefer to use immigration as a political tool. I'm in Congress to provide solutions, not play partisan games. That is why I started the Bipartisan Southwest Caucus and have introduced bipartisan legislation that addresses our broken immigration system and the challenges we face at our border to: stop cartels and coyotes' ability to harm local communities; implement better technology and more staff to stop the flow of fentanyl; create pathways to visa reform for farm workers and enable immigrants working in critical sectors to remain and work legally here; hold detention centers accountable and prevent them from cultivating inhumane conditions.

A5: Republican House Leadership has created the most dysfunctional Congress. The resulting chaos and disarray, including the unprecedented removal of a Speaker, have hindered progress and left many Americans underserved. New Mexico deserves better. I focus on serving the people by addressing the everyday challenges working families face. From the affordability of groceries to the availability of housing, my commitment is to deliver tangible improvements that positively impact our constituents. To restore functionality to Congress, we must reclaim the majority and elect leaders who prioritize results over chaos. It's time to shift from policies that divide and inflame toward those that create a brighter, more equitable future for all Americans.

Yvette Herrell

Republican

A1: I am running because I feel a responsibility to serve the citizens of New Mexico's Second Congressional District. As I visit with voters across the district, too many do not feel represented in Washington, DC. I represent a return to the commonsense conservative values that made our country strong: fiscal sanity, personal responsibility, free markets, secure borders, and safe communities. If elected, I will always put the citizens of New Mexico first and do everything in my power to help make our state a better place to live, work, and raise a family.

A2: Lowering the cost of living and securing the border.

A3: Inflation was created by out of control federal deficit spending. I support a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution to ensure that the federal government lives within its means just like New Mexico families must. Our national debt is $35 trillion and growing - this is totally unsustainable and must be addressed for the sake of future generations who will face the consequences of our nations' addiction to debt. Millions of illegal immigrants have entered our country under the Biden Administration, significantly more than the entire population of New Mexico. We must crack down on asylum fraud, end the practice of catch and release, reinstate in Mexico, and complete the border wall.

A4: Again, we need to reimplement the Remain in Mexico policy, end catch and release, and complete the border wall. We need to reform our broken asylum system to ensure prompt deportation of the vast majority of illegal immigrants who do not qualify for asylum. We also need to see that those selling, transporting, and poisoning the American people with fentanyl and other dangerous drugs are held accountable and face serious consequences for their acts. Once we get the border secure and under control, Congress should turn its focus to reforming our broken legal immigration system to make it simpler for qualified immigrants to enter legally and have the opportunity to live the American Dream and make our country stronger.

A5: Congress should decentralize decision making and return to regular order. This starts by passing - and sticking to - a federal budget, then completing the appropriations process. Too often this process fails, leading to shutdown threats and last minute massive funding bills written in secrecy by a select few.

NEW MEXICO LEGISLATURE

Questions: (SD 35 and HD 38)

Q1: What skills, education and prior experiences qualify you for this office?

Q2: If elected, what are your highest priorities?

Q3: What changes, if any, need to be made in the tax structure of the state?

Q4: What would you propose to diversify New Mexico's economy and promote sustainable economic growth?

Q5: What reforms would you support to improve New Mexico's educational ranking?

Questions: (SD 29, 30 and HD 49, 69)

Q1: What abilities do you have that qualify you for this office?

Q2: What is your top priority, and how do you plan to address it?

Q3: What additional water policies and actions, if any, are needed in New Mexico?

Q4: What, if anything, should be done to improve public safety?

Q5: What programs or actions, if any, would you support to provide more affordable housing?

Q6: How can New Mexico diversify its economy?

Q7: Should legislators be paid a salary? Why or why not?

State Senator

In addition to other duties prescribed by law, senators enact "reasonable and appropriate laws," represent the constituents of their district, and serve on standing or interim committees. The legislature meets each year beginning in January. In odd-numbered years, it meets for 60 days; in even-numbered years, it meets for 30 days. The Governor may call special sessions. Candidates must be at least 25 years old and must be a resident of the district from which elected. They serve a four-year term. Senators do not receive a salary, but they do receive a pre-set per diem.

State Senator District 29

Tina Garcia

Democratic

A1: As a past elected County Clerk, Magistrate Judge and an appointed School Board member, I have vast experience in the challenges and the opportunities within my district. I have a lifelong commitment to this county and would like to continue to see it thrive for future generations.

A2: Crime, Education and the Economy are my top priorities. I will work with local county governments and government leaders to find sensible solutions. Communicating with these stakeholders is crucial. They know what they need to make our students thrive and what assistance they need well protecting our community. Teachers need to be respected and heard and school districts need help funding their various successful programs. I will also be fierce in defending our right to vote.

A3: The Land of Enchantment is beautiful, however we have a water crisis. I will learn as much as I can about this topic. I will listen to the people that have knowledge about what we need and I will listen to what the public supports. This district has a vast farming and agricultural landscape and they need to be heard.

A4: Listen to Law Enforcement and what they need. Making new laws may be necessary, however funding those laws and giving agencies what they need when laws are passed, needs to be addressed. Courts and Law Enforcement agencies work with various other supporting stakeholders doing their best to assist communities with very little money. Treatment, counseling, pre trial programs and Probation need help in holding people accountable when laws are broken.

A5: Valencia and Socorro have seen a rise in homelessness. Again, funding the agencies that help these individuals and communication with what works and doesn't work need to be talked about. Programs like 100% NM is attempting to make a one stop shop in getting the community resources to the people that need it the most. Sometime just knowing where to go is the most helpful, and then transportation to get them there. I will consider these programs and see which would best serve this district.

A6: Encouraging and assisting small business owners is important as well as encouraging growth with larger companies. New Mexico should be a premier area for employers to consider. I would listen and learn so that I can support what is best for this district.

A7: I would need more information about this. I think that the work is important and busy. Can we get everything we need done in the time we have or could we use more time and an salary. I would need to weigh the pros and cons before voting on this. Either way, this position does the work for the people. That is my priority.

A1: I bring a wealth of experience in executive leadership, advocacy, community engagement, and lived experience that make me well-suited to serve in this office. My tenure as the former Director of the Coalition to Stop Violence Against Native Women sharpened my skills in managing a large-scale organization and overseeing substantial budgets, ensuring fiscal responsibility and leading transformational changes for Indigenous survivors of systemic oppression.

A2: Our district has significant needs, and I aim to champion all of these issues in the legislature. Some of the most urgent priorities are the lack of jobs and economic opportunity, the lack of accessible healthcare, the rising costs of groceries and gas, and the critical need to protect our water. As Senator, I'll advocate for economic growth, healthcare access, transportation solutions, and rural infrastructure investment for our district.

A3: In New Mexico, we need policies to manage water resources effectively. Concerns about water-bottling companies in Valencia County highlight the need for community involvement in water decisions. I'll oppose actions that exploit shared resources without local input and advocate for ensuring safe water access across the entire state, protecting these vital supplies for future generations.

A4: I will focus on fully funding education and expanding healthcare services, including mental health and addiction treatment. I advocate for better infrastructure and economic opportunities in rural areas, ensuring equitable service access. Additionally, protecting natural resources and guaranteeing clean drinking water are crucial for community health and safety. My background in advocating for women and children's safety through policy reform highlights my commitment to these priorities.

A5: I support collaborating with community leaders and housing justice experts to develop solutions for affordable housing. I will advocate for increased funding for low-income housing, protections against unfair evictions, and incentives for affordable unit construction. Additionally, I will support programs to combat homelessness and initiatives to increase homeownership through down payment assistance and affordable mortgages.

A6: To diversify New Mexico's economy, we must support the expansion of renewable energies, invest in technology startups, and enhance tourism. We must also improve education in STEM and digital skills, support the growth of our film and media industry, and invest in healthcare and workforce training programs. These strategies will reduce reliance on oil and gas, creating a resilient, broad-based economy fostering job creation and sustainable growth.

A7: Yes. Paying legislators is essential for a diverse, representative government. It enables individuals from all walks of life, not just the retired or wealthy, to run for office. This inclusivity enriches our democracy by bringing expansive perspectives to policymaking, enhancing the effectiveness and representation. By compensating lawmakers, we support people who might not otherwise participate, ensuring our legislature truly reflects New Mexico's demographics and needs.

State Representative

In addition to other duties prescribed by law, representatives enact "reasonable and appropriate laws," represent the constituents of their district, and serve on standing or interim committees. The legislature meets each year beginning in January. In odd-numbered years, it meets for 60 days; in even-numbered years, it meets for 30 days. The Governor may call special sessions. Candidates must be at least 21 years old and must be a resident of the district from which elected. They serve a two-year term. Representatives do not receive a salary, but they do receive a pre-set per diem and mileage; there is also a pension program for legislators serving a minimum period.

State Representative District 38

Tara Jaramillo

Democratic

A1: As the incumbent state representative for House District 38, I've demonstrated my qualifications and commitment to this community via my sponsored legislation and capital outlay requests. My professional experience as a business owner, Socorro School Board Member, and NM Next Generation Council Chair demonstrates leadership in my community. My deep familial and community roots, with over 20 years' experience in healthcare and education, make me well-suited for the NM House of Representatives.

A2: My platform focuses on keeping more money in people's pockets by reducing taxes for everyday New Mexicans and making our tax code more fair. We must reform CYFD to ensure our most vulnerable children are protected. I aim to reduce drug-related crime by adding more behavioral health and drug treatment centers. I'm working to fully fund education, make healthcare affordable, protect reproductive freedom, and improve rural infrastructure, including high-speed internet and road repairs.

A3: We need to embrace the concept of economic fairness. We need to reduce gross receipts tax (GRT) rates, close GRT loopholes and return fairness to the tax code by repealing the tax cut for the wealthiest New Mexicans and increasing the corporate tax rate so everyone pays their fair share. In addition, I would like to make military pensions exempt from state taxes.

A4: To diversify New Mexico's economy and foster sustainable growth, we should prioritize support for our homegrown businesses. I also propose investing in renewable energy projects, expanding agritourism initiatives, promoting tourism and outdoor recreation, incentivizing tech startups, and strengthening vocational training programs aligned with emerging industries.

A5: I have advocated for increased teacher support, training, and retention programs, along with sponsoring legislation for smaller class loads. An updated curriculum focusing on STEM and vocational skills would benefit New Mexico and serve the needs of a 21st-century workforce. I would also push for equitable funding distribution, enhanced access to technology, and increased community involvement in education policies.

Rebecca Dow
Republican

A1: My extensive experience as a business owner, founder of multiple non-profit organizations focused on education and child development, and leadership roles in the House of Representatives demonstrate my strong qualifications for public office. Through my work and community service efforts, I have a strong understanding of New Mexico's statutory and regulatory environment. My education in early childhood and business management further enhances my ability to address the needs of our community by advocating for policies that support development of healthy families and promoting greater economic opportunities. I also utilize critical thinking, problem solving skills, and resourcefulness to achieve results. While others may describe me as an

A2: Dismal child welfare outcomes and generational poverty were what drove me to run for public office in 2016. I envision a New Mexico where children are born healthy, are safe and secure in their surroundings, enter kindergarten ready to succeed, progress from grade to grade achieving their highest individual potential, and graduating with a post high school goal in mind. I worked hard during my six years in the NM House of Representatives to build bipartisan support for key reforms that research shows are effective in building healthy families. While I believe we need to make key changes to break generational poverty, I have seen first-hand how many current House and Senate members lack the energy and desire needed to realize this important

A3: Thanks to a booming oil & gas industry, NM has experienced record breaking general fund budget surplus. The Legislature should be working to use these surplus dollars to create prosperity in our State. The best way to realize this goal is through fundamental tax reform. Reforming GRT would give small businesses a significant tax reduction so they can expand jobs, provide higher wages for their employees & become more competitive with businesses located in neighboring states. I would also eliminate or phased-in significant reductions in other taxes including personal income taxes & the taxes levied on Social Security & military pensions. NM's tax code must also be competitive with our neighbors regarding capital gains & corporate taxes.

A4: Tax reforms listed above would help NM's economy grow, yet we need reliable & affordable electricity; Without it business simply won't come here. The Energy Transition Act of 2019 set New Mexico on a "crash course" towards a "zero carbon" future. Such a future is simply not realistic or affordable & NM will pay a hefty price. Instead, NM needs to work to bring nuclear power to our state as a long-term zero-carbon solutions. We need to embrace home grown natural gas as a lower carbon "bridge" to our energy future. We need to be tougher on crime, so people & businesses feel comfortable & safe, while also ensuring their property rights are secure. We must reform the medical malpractice to save our private health care industry & small hospitals.

A5: We need to make bold changes to our education system. Families want their children to be prepared for the workplace and businesses need an educated workforce to provide future jobs and more economic opportunities. Yet, recent efforts to pour billions of dollars more into a broken system has not worked and our students continue to fall further behind. That's why I support local control and innovation. Parents are their child's primary educator and decisions are most effective when the people who know & understand the student best are involved. I believe in school choice. Choice allows funds to follow students to the school or services that best fit their needs --- whether that's a public, private, home school, or other.

A1: I grew up in my grandmother's home where I was taught the value of my identity, culture, and the importance of earning a western education. My K-12 education journey is a combination of schooling at a rural tribally controlled school and an urban public school. I've earned an associate degree in Hospitality & Tourism, dual bachelor's degrees in Native American Studies and Communication, and a Juris Doctor degree. My legal experience includes natural resources, domestic violence & family law.

A2: Supporting the current and upcoming workforce is my top priority! I plan to do this by ensuring the delivery of resources for all working families to earn livable wages and by preparing students for a variety of opportunities post high school which are essential to creating a qualified workforce in all career fields.

A3: We need all shareholders at the table including representatives for those who do not have a voice (land and animals), listen to one another, and work together to find solutions for better New Mexico water policies and actions.

A4: We need to ensure that we have adequate funding and training for public safety professionals and their industry.

A5: We need creative solutions! We should be working with partners and stakeholders to repurpose old and abandoned hotels and homes to revitalize them and turn them into affordable housing communities. In rural communities, there are opportunities to establish micro communities where infrastructure is needed. I would also support emergency rental assistance programs and create incentives for rental properties willing to work with rental assistance programs.

A6: One way New Mexico can diversify its economy is by investing in renewable energy. We have plenty of sunshine and wind in the state, let's use it!

A7: Yes, I believe legislators should be paid a salary because that would cast a more diverse group of people in office. We also need to ensure that our legislators are compensated so that they can afford to care for themselves and their families while they serve the people of New Mexico.

District Attorney 7th Judicial District

The District Attorney represents the government in the prosecution of criminal offenses. New Mexico has 13 judicial districts for which there is an elected District Attorney. DAs typically handle the following tasks: conduct grand jury investigations, review police reports and the criminal charges, handle preliminary hearings and all other courtroom-contested matters, offer plea bargains, conduct bench or jury trials, and litigate appeals. Four-year term.

Questions:

Q: 1. What experience and education qualifies you to be District Attorney?

Q: 2. What are your highest priorities for this office?

Q: 3. How do you intend to accomplish them?

Q: 4. What, if any, alternatives to incarceration do you support for nonviolent crimes?

A1: I am Currently completing my 9th year as the Valencia County Manager and have previously served 12 years as a Socorro County Manager.

A2: I feel that the County needs to aggressively apply for more State and Federal Grants. Socorro County is not a rich County. We need to take every opportunity to look for resources from grants so that the general fund can be used in other areas of need.

A3: I would start by hiring a Grants writer. The expense for this position should more than pay for itself though grants. This person would also over see the required reporting and serve as the project manager.

A4: Economic Development is difficult at the County level. We should develop a list of what we have to offer potential companies. We can work with the City of Socorro and New Mexico Tech so that they also know what the County can provide to potential companies. There are several organizations that the County could also team up with to get our word out that we are looking.

A5: That is a tough question and a tough balance. We would need to watch what type of businesses we want to attract to Socorro County. If the Company uses a lot of water that would not be a good fit for Socorro County.

JUDICIAL RETENTION

Judicial Retention Justice of the Supreme Court

There are five justices on the New Mexico Supreme Court, the highest court in the State. It is the court of last resort and has supervisory control over all lesser courts and attorneys licensed in the state. The Court is required to hear appeals from election challenges and criminal cases when a defendant is sentenced to the death penalty or life imprisonment. The Court has discretionary authority to review rulings of the Court of Appeals and questions of law certified to it by the Court of Appeals or federal court. Candidates must be at least 35 years old, have practiced law for ten years and have resided in New Mexico for the last three years. Justices are elected statewide for eight-year terms. Voters at a retention election may vote either "yes" or "no" for each individual judge for retention. To retain the office a judge standing for retention must receive 57% "yes" votes of all the votes cast on the question of retention.

Questions:

Q1: What qualifies you for this position?

Q2: What changes, if any, would you recommend to the NM Supreme Court practices and why?

Q3: What improvements, if any, are needed in the Supreme Court?

Briana H. Zamora

Nonpartisan

A1: As a judge, I have served at all levels of the judiciary from the Metropolitan Court to the Supreme Court. I have presided in thousands of cases and well over a hundred jury trials. New Mexicans deserve experienced judges who are independent and have integrity. I have a wealth of judicial experience and a reputation of integrity and fairness. I hope to continue my service to New Mexico as a Supreme Court Justice.

A2: The Supreme Court oversees every court and judicial program in New Mexico. Overall, the judiciary in New Mexico is first rate. However, there are two areas I hope to improve. First, improving the efficacy and efficiency in how the judiciary implements its behavioral health programs would benefit the entire state. Second, working to ensure there is access to legal representation for all New Mexicans, particularly individuals in our rural communities.

A3: The Supreme Court and its employees work tirelessly to issue opinions that are accurate, fair and timely. Lack of resources is our greatest challenge. The Court needs additional attorneys and paralegals to assist the Court in more efficiently issuing the Court's opinions, orders and Supreme Court Rules.

Judicial Retention Judge of the Court of Appeals

There are ten judges on the New Mexico Court of Appeals. It is the intermediate court between the district courts and the Supreme Court. Judges sit in panels of three. The Court reviews appeals in all cases, except criminal cases involving sentences of death or life imprisonment, and cases involving habeas corpus. Judges must be at least 35 years old, have practiced law for ten years, and have resided in New Mexico for the last three years. Judges are elected statewide for eight-year terms. Judicial vacancies are filled through appointment by the Governor from a list of nominees submitted by a judicial nominating committee. At the next regular election the judicial position is filled in a partisan election in which the appointed judge must participate and win the most votes to retain the seat. Judges serve for terms of a set number of years, after which they must win a retention election. Voters at a retention election may vote either "yes" or "no" for each individual judge for retention. To retain the office a judge standing for retention must receive 57% "yes" votes of all the votes cast on the question of retention.

Judicial Retention Judge of the Court of Appeals Position 1

Jennifer Attrep

A1: I have nearly two decades of experience on the bench and in private practice. I have served as a Court of Appeals Judge since 2018 and currently serve as the Chief Judge. As an appellate judge, I have resolved hundreds of appeals in all areas of the law and assisted with Court administration. I previously was a trial judge in Northern New Mexico where I managed a varied docket, presided over thousands of cases, and held over 50 trials. Prior to joining the bench, I served as an appellate attorney and litigator in a variety of civil and criminal cases and clerked for a federal trial judge.

A2: The Court of Appeals is responsible for resolving the vast majority of appeals in New Mexico and, as a result, has a busy and heavy docket. The Court has made significant progress in resolving cases more quickly. Through the tireless efforts of staff and judges, the Court has cleared its backlog that had previously been amassed due to judicial turnover. The Court is dedicated to building on this progress and has adopted programs to increase efficiencies. The Court piloted a program that streamlines the appeal process, and recently implemented a program that provides free mediation services to more expeditiously resolve appeals. We are working to expand these programs and continue to explore other ways to better serve New Mexicans.

A3: The Court of Appeals is focused on expanding public access and improving Court administration. During the pandemic, the Court began allowing unrepresented parties to electronically file court documents; and we are working to expand electronic access for unrepresented parties. The Court will be publishing self-help materials that explain the appellate process and assist unrepresented parties and attorneys in meeting their obligations on appeal. We will be rolling out live-streaming to increase access to our proceedings. The Court of Appeals also is working to obtain needed funding to build its administrative team, so the Court is more efficiently and effectively run. The current lack of staffing greatly overburdens our staff and judges.

Judicial Retention Judge of the Court of Appeals Position 2

Shammara Henderson

A1: I have been a judge on the NM Court of Appeals since my appointment by the Governor in 2020. In that time, I have gained valuable experience as an appellate judge. Prior to becoming a judge, I had a diverse career practicing in both criminal and civil law. I practiced in both state and federal court at the trial and appellate level. I have dedicated my career to ensuring diversity and equity in the judicial system.

A2: We have worked hard the last several years to reduce the time it takes for us to rule on cases before our court. We currently have two pilot projects that have dramatically decreased the time to file opinions in our cases. One impacts our criminal cases, and we have seen our turnaround time dramatically improve. The other is our mediation program, which while new, has already helped with our civil cases. I am dedicated to continuing our efforts to reduce our caseload and find ways to ensure we are ruling on cases in a timely manner.

A3: The main issue that our court has faced is a lack of resources. It has been a priority of mine to ensure that we have more resources. We have used these resources to rebuild our administrative staff and building maintenance. Our priority as judges should be to focus on our cases and to do so, we need the proper resources to ensure our court functions at the level expected by the parties who appear before us. We still have some improvements to make, but we have done a lot to rebuild the past several years.

Judicial Retention Judge of the Court of Appeals Position 3

Megan Duffy

Nonpartisan

A1: I have served as a judge on the Court of Appeals for nearly six years now and gained tremendous experience from working on hundreds of cases involving a broad range of legal issues. I take care with every case to show the parties that we have fully and fairly considered the issues, and to impartially explain what the law says about the issue so the parties understand our decision. Before joining the Court, I had 10 years of experience as an attorney. I began my legal career as a law clerk of Justice Richard Bosson at the New Mexico Supreme Court.

A2: The Court of Appeals experienced tremendous judicial turnover from 2015-2022, which resulted in a backlog of hundreds of cases. My colleagues and I have worked hard for several years to clear that backlog and I'm happy to report that we have done so. Stability on the Court (no turnover in the last 2 years), was important to accomplishing this goal. In addition, we received some additional resources from the Legislature in the last few years, which allowed the Court to restart a mediation program, fill vacant positions, and work with retired appellate judges on a pro tem basis. That was a wonderful experience, and having a robust pro tem program could benefit courts, especially during periods of turnover.

A3: While we are proud of our work in clearing the backlog, the Court still wants to move cases faster through the court. We have set a goal of resolving 95% of all cases within 720 days, or just under two years. We have made tremendous progress in our time-to-disposition, but still have work to do. We have been working to obtain the resources we need (both funding and personnel), and piloting programs that we hope will allow us to resolve cases quicker, including (1) a revamped mediation program, (2) a pilot project for criminal cases that produces briefing earlier in the case, and (3) a speech-to-text program that allows us to review trials and hearings more efficiently.

Judicial Retention District Court Judge Seventh Judicial District Division 03

New Mexico's 33 counties are divided into 13 judicial districts. These are courts of general jurisdiction that hold jury trials in the following types of civil cases: tort, contract, real property rights and estate contests. District courts generally have exclusive jurisdiction over domestic relations, mental health, appeals for administrative agencies and lower courts, criminal appeals, and juvenile cases. Must be at least 35 years old, have practiced law for at least six years, and reside in the district from which elected. Six-year term. Judicial vacancies are filled through appointment by the Governor from a list of nominees submitted by a judicial nominating committee. At the next regular election the judicial position is filled in a partisan election in which the appointed judge must participate and win the most votes to retain the seat. Judges serve for terms of a set number of years, after which they must win a retention election. Voters at a retention election may vote either "yes" or "no" for each individual judge for retention. To retain the office, a judge standing for retention must receive 57% "yes" of all the votes cast on the question of retention.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

Constitutional Amendment 1:

“Proposing an amendment to Article 8, Section 15 of the constitution of New Mexico to extend a property tax exemption, currently only allowed for one hundred percent disabled veterans and their widows and widowers, to veterans with less than a one hundred percent disability and their widows and widowers and basing the amount of the exemption on a veteran’s disability rating.”

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Exemption would provide disabled veterans protection from rising property taxes. Allowing the property tax exemption for veterans with a permanent service-connected disability will support property-owning disabled veterans and their widowed spouses in an amount proportional to the percentage of the veteran's disability rating.
2. Expanding the property tax exemption sends the message that anyone who suffers a disability while serving in the armed forces deserves to be taken care of equally, regardless of the severity of the injury.
3. Expresses support of the state for veterans.
4. A decrease in property tax could provide an incentive for veterans of the armed forces to move to and buy property in New Mexico, which may increase the state's population and tax base.
5. The estimated cost of an additional annual per capita burden of $34.00 for the general population of the state is comparatively low to the benefit provided to the nearly 30,000 service-related disabled veterans with property tax liability in the state.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. Exemption may benefit those who do not need financial assistance. If the purpose is to relieve the financial burden on those who are unable, due to their disability, to pay property taxes, then the exemption should target those with limited incomes.
2. Financial assistance is already available for disabled veterans through a number of programs. There are other social programs that disabled veterans may access to assist with living expenses. For instance, there are numerous state, federal and nonprofit programs that serve veterans.
3. Non-disabled-veteran property taxpayers will pay more due to exemption. By expanding eligibility for a property tax exemption, the property tax bills of other state residents will increase
4. A property tax is traditionally based on the value and nature of the property, not the personal characteristics of the owner. Creating an exemption for certain individuals is a departure from the underlying principle of property taxation and could set a precedent for other groups to seek a similar exemption.
5. The federal government should help disabled veterans, not the state. If voters believe that more compensation is due to disabled veterans and their spouses, then they should ask their representatives in Congress to address the issue.
6. Property tax benefit for veterans already exists in the Constitution of New Mexico.
7. Exemption excludes other property taxpayers who are disabled due to work-related injuries. There are many dangerous but necessary occupations with a high chance of disability from injury, so it is unclear why disabled veterans warrant preferable treatment in comparison to other disabled persons.

Constitutional Amendment No. 2

“Proposing an amendment to Article 8, Section 5 of the constitution of New Mexico to increase a property tax exemption for honorably discharged members of the armed forces and their widows and widowers.”

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Reducing the property tax paid by honorably discharged members of the armed forces and their widowed spouses supports property-owning veterans and their widows or widowers and helps them maintain homeownership.
2. Increasing property tax exemptions for honorably discharged veterans demonstrates New Mexico's support for and appreciation of members of the armed forces who risked their lives and served their country honorably.
3. A decrease in property tax could provide an incentive for veterans of the armed forces to move to and buy property in New Mexico, which may increase the state's population and tax base.
4. By adjusting the amount of the exemption for inflation, the amount of the exemption for veterans will increase without requiring a future constitutional amendment, which is a challenging, lengthy and costly process.
5. The increased exemption amount is fairer to veterans and their spouses in 2024. The current exemption was set in 2002 and, since then, the value of the dollar has increased approximately 72% while property values have increased by approximately 80%.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. Congress should be responsible for providing veterans' benefits. It is inappropriate for state and local governments to bear the expense of providing extended benefits to veterans in return for their service in a branch of the United States armed forces. If more generous benefits are due to veterans and their spouses, Congress should provide those benefits.
2. Exemption could benefit those who chose to enlist. Special property tax benefits should not be extended to someone who makes the choice to work in a branch of the United States armed forces.
3. Unfair to other property taxpayers who will pay more due to exemption increase. An increase in this property tax exemption will shift the tax burden, and the tax bills of all other New Mexico property owners will increase.
4. Tax relief measures should be based on need. There is no evidence that veterans have lower incomes or a greater need for property tax relief than other taxpayers. It is possible that, with the passage of the proposed constitutional amendment, veterans who are financially stable and who own large, high-value homes will be relieved from contributing their property tax share.
5. Exemption for special groups of property taxpayers could set precedent for other individuals to seek tax relief. Property tax is based on the value and nature of the property, not the personal characteristics of the owner. Creating an exemption for certain individuals is a departure from the underlying principle of property taxation and could set a precedent for other groups to seek similar exemptions.
6. The exemption amount benefits a portion of veterans as it only applies to owner-occupied residences that are used as a principal place of residency and will exclude veterans who are institutionalized, homeless or renters.
7. Inflation provision would increase property taxes even more for non-veteran property taxpayers. The proposal to index the amount of exemption for inflation may continue to erode the property tax base and annually increase the property tax bills for those who are not eligible for the property tax exemption.

Constitutional Amendment No. 3

“Proposing to amend Article 6, Section 35 of the constitution of New Mexico by allowing the dean of the University of New Mexico School of Law to appoint a designee to the Judicial Nominating Commission.”

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. The role of chair of the Appellate Judges Nominating Commission is primarily administrative. The Rules Governing Judicial Nominating Commissions outline the role of the chair and task the chair with the duties of announcing the existence of a judicial vacancy to the public and members of the commission, scheduling meetings of the commission and providing the media with notice of the meetings, preparing application packets and preparing agendas for meetings. These are not tasks that require the legal mind of the dean of a school of law, but even if they were, this proposed amendment ensures that there will be an esteemed legal scholar serving as chair of the commission.

2. The University of New Mexico School of Law serves a vital interest to the state by educating a vast majority of the attorneys who practice here since it is the only school of law in New Mexico. Beyond the normal duties of being the dean of a school of law, and the current requirement to serve as chair of the Appellate Judges Nominating Commission, the dean is also required by statute to serve as the chair of the Judicial Compensation Commission. Allowing the dean's designee to serve on the Appellate Judges Nominating Commission would relieve the dean of a commitment that could be performed by others

3. The dean of the University of New Mexico School of Law is already permitted to have a designee for important commissions, including the New Mexico Sentencing Commission and the New Mexico Compilation Commission. The dean is also required to appoint three members to the Public Defender Commission. Each of these commissions have functioned adequately without requiring the dean to attend every meeting. The dean should be allowed to appoint a designee

1. Potentially removes a neutral tie-breaking vote from the commission. When the Appellate Judges Nominating Commission was created, there was a desire to have a neutral person who could break any of the commission's tie votes. The legislature, which passed the joint resolution to create the commission, and the people, who voted to pass the constitutional amendment in 1988, believed that the dean of the University of New Mexico School of Law was the best person to put into this neutral tie-breaking role.

2. Could remove one of New Mexico's most prominent legal scholars from the judicial appointment process. The Appellate Judges Nominating Commission serves a vital role in New Mexico's judicial system by vetting and nominating candidates for the most prominent judicial positions in the state. The dean is tapped into New Mexico's legal community by virtue of being the head of the state's only law school. The dean's connections in the legal community could provide insight into the careers and backgrounds of the applicants that the commission vets.

Constitutional Amendment No. 4

“Proposing an amendment to Article 10, Section 1 of the constitution of New Mexico to provide that the salaries of county officers shall be established by the Board of County Commissioners, remove references to the First Legislative Session and clarify that any fees collected by a county official shall be paid into the treasury of the county.”

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. While it made sense for the legislature to set county officer salaries when the state was new, the counties are now longstanding, established entities that handle their own affairs without such close state guidance. is amendment is a measure to modernize the system to better reflect the realities of day-to-day governance. The current law only sets maximum salaries for county officers and already allows boards of county commissioners discretion in determining salary increases for their officers within the statutory limitations.

2. County officers manage complex bureaucracies and require executive experience and specialized skills to be effective on behalf of their constituents. To ensure that voters have the opportunity to elect qualified officers, counties need the flexibility to set salaries to attract experienced and skilled candidates. This amendment would allow counties to be more responsive to their own needs and provide for more professional management.

3. Constitutional and statutory safeguards exist to check the power of county commissioners in setting salaries. The constitution and laws of the state have measures that serve as a check on the powers of county commissioners in setting the salaries of county officers.

4. Will give voters more say in how their counties are managed. County officers are locally elected and directly accountable to their constituents. This amendment would localize salary decisions and make county officers more accountable to their constituents.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. Without legislative oversight, county official salaries will be wide-ranging and inconsistent among counties. Pursuant to its current obligation to fix the salaries for county officers, the legislature has established a comprehensive classification system based on a combination of a county's population and the total value of real estate within the county. This system helps to ensure that salaries are uniform and proportional across the state. This proposed amendment empowers boards of county commissioners to establish officer salaries without any standards.

2. Removing legislature's authority could lead to negative consequences for counties. Allowing boards of county commissioners full discretion to determine salaries for their officers takes authority and power away from the legislature. The people of the state have an interest in the legislature retaining the power to set county officer salaries because it serves as a mutual check – it is a reasonable limit on counties' powers and requires accountability from the legislature.

3. County commissioners would set their own salaries. Currently, Article 10, Section 1 of the Constitution of New Mexico places the legislature in a neutral third-party role and provides assurances to the people of the state that county officer salaries are determined impartially. This proposed amendment may make these determinations more susceptible to short-term political or personal considerations.
